Student Presentation Competition

Graduate and undergraduate students are cordially invited by ASTM Additive Manufacturing Center of Excellence (AM CoE) to participate in the student presentation competition that will be held in conjunction with ASTM International Conference on Additive Manufacturing (ASTM ICAM) on October 31 – November 4, 2022, at the JW Marriott Orlando Bonnet Creek Resort & Spa in Orlando, FL.

Interested students are required to prepare and submit their abstracts no later than March 1, 2022. The abstract title should be no more than 10 words and the abstract itself is limited to 150 words. In addition, each participating student will receive:

- Discounted registration to attend conference sessions and social events to network with additive manufacturing experts from academia, industry, and government
- One-year free membership in ASTM International

The number of students approved for this competition will depend on the quality of the submitted abstracts and availability of sponsor funds.

Students may only submit abstracts to the Student Presentation Competition symposium for consideration.
